READY, SET...

SEVEN STEPS TO SUCCESS.

There has never been a better time to start a business in Saskatchewan – A booming economy, increasing population, and new technologies have lowered many of the barriers to entry. According to Statistics Canada, Saskatchewan has the highest percentage of self-employed people in the country. Your enthusiasm for entrepreneurship is shared by many, so let's get started!

This ebook will focus on helping you with the administrative aspects of setting up a business – knowing the regulatory requirements of starting a business in Saskatchewan and spending as little money as possible to do so.

Note: This ebook should be used as a guide to help you get started, but should not be considered as a replacement to appropriate legal and accounting advice. Community Futures accept no liability for errors or omissions contained within this guide.

BEFORE YOU START PREPARING FOR SUCCESS

Not everybody needs to register for a business. You may not need to register your business provincially if you meet all of the following criteria:

- You are operating a sole proprietorship under your personal name (e.g. “John Smith”) OR practicing a profession regulated by a governing body (e.g. doctor or lawyer) and your firm is operating under the name of a current or former associate.
- You do not have any employees and do not wish to receive optional personal coverage from WCB.
- You are operating a business in one of these specific industries that is not eligible for or does not require a PST number to be filed with the Ministry of Finance (either as a vendor or consumer).

You may still need to get a GST number if your revenues will exceed $30,000 per year. Visit the CRA website to determine if you should register for a GST Account:

<http://www.cra-arc.gc.ca/tx/bsnss/tpcs/gst-tps/rgstrng/menu-eng.html>

If your business is operating under any other scenario that is not detailed above, you will need to register your business and apply for any applicable permits/licenses. Follow the steps outlined in the rest of this document.

STEP ONE PICK YOUR BUSINESS STRUCTURE.

There are three main choices that apply in most circumstances (Excluding Cooperatives & Non Profits):

SOLE PROPRIETOR

If you plan to be self-employed and not hire direct employees then this is the simplest route to go. You can operate under your own name or register a business name, obtain any necessary licenses, and you're in business.

This choice is best for businesses that have very little liability, modest income, and require little capital to operate. It's often appropriate for consultants, individual trades people, and freelance creative professionals. However, if you run into legal or financial problems then be aware that your personal assets are at stake.

ADVANTAGES

- Easy and inexpensive to form a sole proprietorship (you will only need to register your business name provincially)
- Relatively low cost to start your business

- Lowest amount of regulatory burden
- Direct control of decision making
- Minimal working capital required to start-up
- Tax advantages if your business is not doing well, for example, deducting your losses from your personal income, lower tax bracket when profits are low.
- All profits will go to you directly

DISADVANTAGES

- Unlimited liability (if you have business debts, personal assets would be used to pay off the debt)
- Income would be taxable at your personal rate and, if your business is profitable, this may put you in a higher tax bracket
- Lack of continuity for your business, if you need to be absent
- Difficulty raising capital on your own

PARTNERSHIP

A partnership is a good business structure if you want to carry on a business with a partner and you do not wish to incorporate your business. With a partnership, you would combine your financial resources with your partner into the business. You can establish the terms of your business with your partner and protect yourself in case of a disagreement or dissolution by drawing up a specific business agreement. As a partner, you would share in the profits of your business according to the terms of your agreement.

You may also be interested in a limited liability partnership in the business. This means that you would not take part in the control or management of the business, but would be liable for debts to a specified extent only.

SO CHOOSE CAREFULLY”

ADVANTAGES

- Easy to start-up a partnership
- Start-up costs would be shared equally with you and your partner
- Equal share in the management, profits and assets
- Tax advantage, if income from the partnership is low or loses money (you and your partner include your share of the partnership in your individual tax return)

DISADVANTAGES

- Similar to sole proprietorship, as there is no legal difference between you and your business
- Unlimited liability (if you have business debts, personal assets would be used to pay off the debt)
- Hard to find a suitable partner (It's like being married, so choose carefully).
- Possible development of conflict between you and your partner
- You are held financially responsible for business decisions made by your partner (for example, contracts that are broken)

CORPORATION

If you offer a product or service that could end up harming somebody (physically or financially), has large earnings potential, and requires significant capital to operate then it's best to incorporate. A corporation is a separate legal entity apart from yourself and protects your personal assets in the event things go awry. It is more expensive to run a corporation than a sole proprietorship since you may need the assistance of a lawyer to file the initial articles of incorporation and an accountant to process your tax return every year. You can incorporate either provincially or nationally depending on where you plan to do business.

A corporation has many advantages when it comes to saving taxes when revenue exceeds about $75,000 per year. Up until this point, there are not many tax advantages to being incorporated compared to being a sole proprietor or partnership. Assuming you don't have any employees/partners and your business doesn't require a lot capital or liability, then you can always start as a sole proprietor and convert to a corporation later.

ADVANTAGES

- Limited liability
- Ownership is transferable
- Continuous existence
- Separate legal entity
- Easier to raise capital
- Possible tax advantage as taxes may be lower for an incorporated business

DISADVANTAGES

- A corporation is closely regulated
- More expensive to incorporate than a partnership or sole proprietorship
- Extensive corporate records required, including shareholder and director meetings, and documentation filed annually with the government
- Possible conflict between shareholders and directors
- Possible problem with residency of directors

STEP TWO

SEARCHING AND RESERVING A BUSINESS NAME FOR USE IN SASKATCHEWAN.

Before you incorporate a Saskatchewan business corporation or register a business name, the proposed name must be searched against all other registered names in Saskatchewan, as well as federal corporations and registered trademarks. The search ensures that no other business has an identical or very similar name to the one you want to use for your business.

If you are a sole proprietor you can operate your business under your personal name without reserving a formal business name, but it's recommended you still do a name search to ensure nobody else is already using it for business.

Below is a link to cost saving online tools that allow you to do a name search and register a business name for as little as $115 total.

STEP THREE PREPARING TO REGISTER YOUR BUSINESS – REQUIRED INFORMATION.

Before you begin the process of registering your business online, make sure you know the answers to the following questions:

Do I have a unique business name?

No other business can have an identical or very similar name to the one you want to use. You need to reserve a business name, and have the official Reservation Number from the Corporate Registry, before you can register your business. Go to Step 2 if you need to search and reserve a name.

Do I know my business location?

You will be asked for the location of your business. If the business is out of your own home, use your home mailing address.

Do I plan to hire employees?

You will be asked if you plan to hire employees or subcontractors and will need to provide the approximate wages you expect to pay them.

Resource: Information on hiring employees in Saskatchewan

What will be my anticipated monthly sales?

You will be asked how much you anticipate to sell every month in which PST will be collected.

Will you be extra-provincially registering in British Columbia or Alberta?

As a business corporation you will be asked if you would like to register your business extra-provincially in British Columbia and/or Alberta. Extra-provincial registration in these two provinces will be facilitated online at no extra cost.

As a numbered company, limited partnership, limited liability partnership, or co-operative and you wish to extra-provincially register in British Columbia and/or Alberta as part of the New West Partnership Trade Agreement (NWP) you need to extra-provincially register with the ISC Corporate Registry site: <https://www.isc.ca/CorporateRegistry/RegisteringaBusiness/SearchandReserveaBusinessName/new-west-partnership-name-reservations/Pages/default.aspx>. This transaction cannot currently be done on the Business Registrations Saskatchewan site.

If you can answer all of the above, you're ready to register!

STEP FIVE

ACQUIRE PERMITS, LICENSES, AND LOCAL MUNICIPALITY APPROVALS.

Your business may need numerous licences and permits from different levels of government. Use the BizPaL licences and permits service to find out which ones may apply to your business.
